Raeanne Passantino, MA, has been in the domestic violence and sexual assault field since 1993. She served as a domestic violence and sexual assault volunteer for 3.5 years with one of the domestic violence shelter programs in Alameda County while attending graduate school for her counseling degree. She joined said shelter program in 1999 and performed many tasks including the creation and coordination of their restraining order clinic, provided individual and group counseling, worked as the contracts manager, and eventually became director of the domestic violence program. In 2006 Ms. Passantino helped create and coordinate a domestic violence program for the Alameda County Public Health Department that focused on enrolling victims and their families in health insurance. Ms. Passantino transferred to the Alameda County District Attorney's Office as the Assistant Director of the Alameda County Family Justice Center (ACFJC) in April 2009. She has extensive knowledge of the ACFJC because of her participation in the ACFJC strategic planning process and role of on-site ACFJC partner while with the Public Health Department.
